At ABBA School, we present the official departmental curriculum, for our children who have received no formal education until now, and have gross emotional negligence.

Our teachers, and care givers, are trained to acknowledge and respect the individual abilities and competencies of each child. At Abba School, they have the opportunity to adapt naturally into a school environment, which leaves them ready to face social interaction, and educational expectancies, upon entering normal educational environments, once adopted or in a foster family.
